Teaching ESL

Looking to learn—or teach—a language abroad?

ISA offers possibilities to gain skills in foreign language acquisition or take courses that introduce theoretical or practical approaches to teaching ESL. Studying abroad will also give you first-hand exposure to a different education system and different cultural approaches to classroom learning. Keep in mind that you'll likely need to plan to study abroad around your teaching practicum. Summer or J-term options might be your best option.

If you need help finding specific courses that you need to take abroad, visit studiesabroad.com/course-finder and our expert advisors will be in touch with you with some program options!
